

Feeling, Emotions and Mood

Name: _____ Date: _____

Feelings or emotion words help to set the mood of a story.

An author writes "It was a dark and stormy night."

1. Circle the word for the emotions you feel during a storm on a dark night. Think about why you have the emotions/feelings you circled.

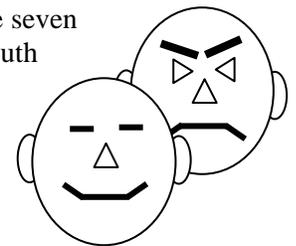

happy	pleased	excited	thrilled	annoyed	displeased
mad	angry	mean	cruel	sad	heartbroken
scared	fearful	bored	uninterested	calm	neutral

2. Circle the words in the following seven sentences that are feeling or emotion words. Not every sentence has emotion words.

1. A child is afraid of a huge, mean dog that is chained up next to the sidewalk where the child must walk.
2. A child is happy and excited when s/he learns s/he will be going on a vacation to Disney World in two days.
3. An adult watching a TV show that his/her children chose to watch is bored.
4. A cat is watching a mouse it wants to eat for dinner. It is waiting for a chance to pounce on the mouse.
5. An angry child is walking toward a bedroom after being grounded for not coming straight home from school.
6. A child is thinking about what his/her parents will do when they learn that s/he broke the television.
7. An adult is watching a favorite comedy show and something very funny happened.

3. Explain how you usually knew what the person (or animal) was feeling in the sentences that have no emotion words.

4. A face can show emotion. Draw a picture of the face of the main character in one of the seven sentences. Your drawing does not need to be perfect. Show how the eyes, nose, and mouth would look. Write the number of the sentence.

5. Write several sentences that describe the face that you drew for #4 so well that anyone who reads them can tell what the person was feeling. Do not use any emotion words that were already in the sentence. You may write on the back of this page.
